SPD is a spectrum disorder, which means that it can range from mild to severe. Symptoms can vary widely from person to person.

The exact cause of SPD is unknown, but it is thought to be caused by a combination of genetic and environmental factors. Some risk factors for SPD include:

- Premature birth
- Low birth weight
- Autism spectrum disorder
- ADHD
- Other developmental disorders

SPD is diagnosed by a qualified healthcare professional, such as a developmental pediatrician, occupational therapist, or psychologist. Diagnosis is based on a thorough evaluation, which may include:

- A physical examination
- A developmental history
- A sensory processing assessment

There is no cure for SPD, but there are a variety of treatments that can help to improve symptoms. These treatments may include:

- Sensory integration therapy
- Occupational therapy
- Speech therapy
- Physical therapy
- Medications
